

Frozen The Musical - Oaken Audition Material

1 Song and 1 Scene

Oaken Audition Song: 'Hygge'

Audition Cut: Start -> 1:41 ("Without your family and friends")

Youtube Video Name: [Instrumental] Hygge (Frozen - The Broadway Musical)

Oaken Audition Scene: Act Two, Scene One

OAKEN

Hoo-hoo. Hello, man. Hello, lady. Hello, little boy in snowman costume! Today is lucky for you. Here at Wandering Oaken's Trading Post and Sauna we are offering a Big Summer Blow Out Sale. Half off out short shorts, open-toed foot clogs, and a balm of my own invention for the repelling of the rays of the sun. Yah? Why am I not scared of the notion-ing of eternal winter caused by our newly crowned and newly-exposed-to-be-magical queen, you are asking me with your eyes?

KRISTOFF

We need supplies. And where are your carrots? I'm gonna need 'em all.

OAKEN

I welcome you to our highly precious produce department.

(OAKEN offers up a measly supply of carrots.)

ANNA

And hi, sir. I mean, hoo-hoo?

OAKEN

Hoo-hoo.

ANNA

I was hoping you might have a slightly less smelly, more size-appropriate winter cloak or dress or something for climbing the North Mountain?

OAKEN

Something for climbing the North Mountain where many have frozen to death? Yah! I have exactly what you are needing. Hygge.

ANNA

Hygge? What's hygge?

KRISTOFF

Hygge is... (seeing the price of the snow shoes:) ...not tripling the price of produce and winter gear in a crisis! This is criminal.

OAKEN

Hygge is also not insulting a shop owner when you are needing of his services.